Whānau potential is high and ready to be unleashed; Whānau Ora provider networks are extensive, committed, innovative and ready to learn from each other; and Whānau Ora is already anchored on solid foundations that will bring fresh opportunities and gains for whānau in the decade ahead.

Professor Sir Mason Durie – Chair, Whānau Ora Governance Group

- Whānau Ora is an inclusive approach to providing services and opportunities to all families in need across New Zealand. It empowers whānau as a whole – rather than focusing separately on individual family members and their problems – and requires multiple government agencies to work together with families rather than separately with individual relatives.
- Jointly implemented by the Ministry of Māori Development, Te Puni Kōkiri, and the Ministries of Social Development and Health, Whānau Ora is about a transformation of whānau and families – with whānau who set their own direction.
- It is driven by a focus on outcomes: that whānau will be self-managing; living healthy lifestyles; participating fully in society; confidently participating in te ao Māori (the Māori world); economically secure and successfully involved in wealth creation; and cohesive, resilient and nurturing.
- Whānau Ora works in a range of ways, influenced by the approach the whānau chooses to take. Some families will want to come up with ways of improving their own lives and may want to work on this with a hapū, iwi or a non-government organisation (NGO).
- Other whānau will want to seek help from specialist Whānau Ora providers who will offer wrap-around services tailored to their needs. Families will have a practitioner or ‘navigator’ to work with them to identify their needs, help develop a plan to address those needs and broker their access to a range of health and social services.
- Since its inception in 2010, the Government's investment in Whānau Ora has focussed on achieving outcomes for whānau and families through service and organisational transformation, and whānau integration, innovation and engagement. The collaborative effort to date includes:
 - a national Governance Group comprising four community-based experts and the chief executives of three partner agencies – Te Puni Kōkiri and the Ministries of Social Development and Health – with support from two government departments: the Ministries of Education and Pacific Island Affairs
 - 10 Regional Leadership Groups (RLGs) with a total of 85 community and partner agency representatives from Te Puni Kōkiri, the Ministry of Social Development and District Health Boards
 - 34 collectives and two providers representing more than 180 independent Māori, Pacific and general primary health and social services providers as well as tribal rūnanga, marae and Māori trusts
 - a shared work programme across partner agencies with specific lead responsibilities assigned to each
 - a network of evaluation and action research practitioners.

- A total of 25 collectives have been approved for multi-year investment packages in change management through the implementation of Programmes of Action (POAs). POAs document the steps they are taking to reshape their existing service delivery to enhance best outcomes for whānau and families.
- A further five collectives are completing key phases towards implementing their POAs while at the same time engaging with whānau and families to test and refine their navigational approaches. Te Puni Kōkiri continues to work with the remaining four collectives to develop a Whānau Ora approach in their work.
- Budget 2011 invested another $30 million in Whānau Ora adding to the $134 million over four years in Budget 2010.

Whānau Ora Governance Group

- The Whānau Ora Governance Group is responsible for overseeing the implementation of Whānau Ora and advises the Minister for Whānau Ora, Hon Tariana Turia, on policy settings, priorities and regional management.
- The Governance Group also provides leadership and coordination across government agencies and other stakeholders to encourage involvement in Whānau Ora.
- Membership includes three community representatives and the chief executives of Te Puni Kōkiri, the Ministry of Social Development and the Ministry of Health. The community members are Professor Sir Mason Durie (interim chair), Nancy Tuaine, Merepeka Raukawa-Tait and Doug Hauraki (interim appointee). Rob Cooper – the chair of the Governance Group – is currently on leave.
- Te Puni Kōkiri works closely with the Ministries of Social Development and Health to support the Governance Group to implement Whānau Ora. More recently, the Ministries of Education and Pacific Island Affairs have joined this collaborative effort.

Whānau Ora Regional Leadership Groups

- Ten Whānau Ora Regional Leadership Groups (RLGs) have been established around the country based on Te Puni Kōkiri regional boundaries.
- RLGs provide regional strategic leadership to ensure whānau-centred initiatives contribute in positive and realistic ways to local communities. They do this by fostering local communications and relationships, and ensuring there is coordination with other local and regional initiatives and services.
- Members include between three and seven community representatives and three officials – one each from Te Puni Kōkiri, the Ministry of Social Development and local District Health Boards.
- The community members come from diverse backgrounds and have expertise and skills in health and social services, whānau development and community development.
- In 2012, Pacific community members were appointed to three RLGs. Four collectives represent Pacific providers in the three regions. A group of four Whānau Champions is also advocating and promoting Whānau Ora to all New Zealanders, complementing the work of the Governance Group and RLGs.

Whānau Ora Provider Collectives

- In 2010, 25 Whānau Ora collectives representing more than 150 health and social service providers from throughout the country were selected to develop whānau-centred services.
- Budget 2011 allocated further funding to extend the Whānau Ora model to key localities and eight additional collectives representing 30 providers were given Governance Group approval in 2012. In total, 34 collectives represent more than 180 providers.
- Whānau Ora providers continue to deliver existing services to their communities while they work on changes to their service delivery to engage whānau and families. Programmes of Action (POAs) outline the changes that the collectives are making to their service delivery model and the key steps they are taking to implement these.
- A POA enables a collective to identify opportunities to enhance what it currently does and, at the same time, seek new and innovative opportunities to do things differently to support whānau and families to realise their aspirations.
- Whānau Ora provider collectives have established navigational approaches where more than 70 practitioners work directly and intensively with whānau and families to identify their needs and aspirations, develop a whānau plan to address those needs and then broker their access to high quality services that meet the goals in the plans.
- Common themes in whānau plans include better lives for children; employment; housing and home ownership; education and skills development; and health and cultural wellness.

Whānau Integration, Innovation and Engagement (WIIE) Fund

- The Whānau Integration, Innovation and Engagement (WIIE) Fund assists whānau-led development and supports whānau and families to engage with each other and with other whānau, communities and providers. The WIIE Fund aims to build whānau capability, strengthen whānau connections, support the development of whānau leadership and enhance best outcomes for whānau.
- The WIIE Fund is open to whānau and families working with Whānau Ora providers and other non-government organisations including iwi, hapū, rūnanga, whānau trusts and marae committees. Activities funded include developing whānau plans, implementing priority parts of whānau plans, producing information and resources for whānau, and supporting whānau-based activities.
- More than 3,000 whānau and families have set their whānau planning activities in motion through involvement in the WIIE Fund. Regional Leadership Groups help to identify regional priorities and guide decision-making for the fund.
- An independent evaluation on the impact of the WIIE Fund found that bringing whānau together – backed up by good quality facilitation – is transformative in itself. Many families, including those with complex needs or those who are high users of services who have completed whānau plans have identified clear steps to education and employment and implemented these without further funding.
- Information about the WIIE Fund is available from regional Te Puni Kōkiri offices or from the website: www.tpk.govt.nz/mi/in-focus/whanau-ora.

Research, Evaluation and Monitoring

- Research, evaluation and monitoring measures results and gauges the success of the design, implementation and impact of Whānau Ora. A formal programme evaluation looks at the broader success of the Whānau Ora approach in terms of design, implementation and impact. Separate monitoring identifies progress towards achieving Whānau Ora outcomes.

- Early results show positive signs of change for whānau and families are occurring through Whānau Ora. Although the lives of whānau and families are complex and multi-dimensional, it appears the approach supports whānau to progress towards aspirations holistically. Common aspirations are around health/disability (18 per cent of all goals); manaakitanga (12 per cent of all goals); and housing (nine per cent of all goals).
- More than 300 new whānau and families were directly engaged with seven Whānau Ora providers involved in an 'Information Collection' trial. In total, 800 whānau clients developed or advanced their whānau plans. The trial found that the participating families have high levels of satisfaction with services and support they have received from provider collectives, leading to positive changes for whānau members.
- In a Whānau Satisfaction Survey of 51 whānau and families representing 235 individuals, 84 per cent agreed/strongly agreed that they have more confidence in parenting/care-giving; 77 per cent agreed/strongly agreed that their whānau has an improved housing situation; and 71 per cent agreed/strongly agreed that their whānau has improved income.
- Action researchers are working with provider collectives, communities, whānau and families to gather evidence so the systems, processes and programmes to deliver whānau-centred services are continually refined and improved. They are currently carrying out interviews to gather information about whānau expectations and experiences of services and providers.
- Tangible evidence of transformational change for providers and the impact on whānau and families is highlighted in the most recent Whānau Ora research and reporting results. Key themes and findings indicate a definite 'shift' towards a collective approach that is more whānau-centred and influenced by best outcomes for whānau and families.
- Whānau Ora research, toolkits, resources and researchers as well as whānau success stories are being showcased to a worldwide audience thanks to an online initiative. The Tangata Whenua, Community and Voluntary Sector Research Centre – known as Community Research – has launched the Whānau Ora research website: www.whanauoraresearch.co.nz
